

THE SUBSTATION

ANNUAL REPORT | 2017

A black and white photograph of a person with long hair, wearing a dark shirt, leaning over and looking into a large, illuminated spherical glass container. The container is filled with a bright, glowing light source, possibly a light bulb, and is supported by a metal stand. The background is dark, and the overall mood is contemplative and artistic.

ABOUT

The SUBSTATION is a multi-art space presenting a curated program of contemporary, experimental, interdisciplinary work by local, national and international artists. Engaging with artists from across artistic disciplines, working in non-traditional modes, we commission and curate our program to create opportunities for audiences in the greater west of Melbourne to see the best of contemporary and experimental arts. We aim to engage local audiences in an inspired, critical dialogue about current society.

THE TRIBE

Performed by HAZEEM SHAMMAS, THE TRIBE is a story of belonging and family, told by the small boy, Bani. At the heart of THE TRIBE is Bani's love for his Tayta, his grandmother and core presence in his life, who carries all the truths of 'The Tribe' – a small Muslim sect who fled to Australia from Lebanon.

Taking place in a Newport backyard, performed alongside cellist and composer OONAGH SHERRARD, SHAMMAS's Bani is like a visionary child channeling a Bedouin storyteller. Based on MICHAEL MOHAMMED AHMAD's award-winning novel, THE TRIBE is an open invitation to listen to an Arab-Australian story from our backyard, in our backyards.

RATED BY AUDIENCE MEMBERS

“Loved it, he was so captivating. Loved the experience of walking to a mystery location and into someone backyard to experience theatre. Love the innovative way the SUBSTATION are programming in diverse pockets of the community.”
– Audience Member

“This is what theatre is really about for me. The knowledge passed on from Tata grounds the audience in the heart of the Tribe. Hazeem was charisma oozing from every gesture, his well trained golden voice capturing the imagination of the ancient bedrock of Lebanese culture crossing Christianity and Islam. Pauline Hanson should be a captive audience member. It would soften her hardened heart if she met Tata through Hazeem’s love and respect for her courage and care. Pauline - get into The Tribe!”

– Audience Member

92% of attendees said they gained more appreciation of other forms of cultural expression by being exposed to them through experiencing The Tribe.

XIU XIU PLAYS THE MUSIC OF TWIN PEAKS

The iconic music of American TV series Twin Peaks by composer Angelo Badalamenti and David Lynch was given a makeover in this special live performance by acclaimed experimental pop group XIU XIU.

XIU XIU's performance wasn't simply a recreation of the Twin Peaks music, but offered an entirely new interpretation that emphasises its chaos, drama, fear, noise and sidelong leering glances.

“As with any great show, it ends and you wish it didn’t. It’s the kind of performance that lingers for a few days, that makes you go home and play the record that very night, letting you indulge in that remarkable blend of something so unavoidably derivative and so utterly original.”

CONFLICTED: WORKS FROM THE VIETNAM ARCHIVE PROJECT

Phuong on the other hand was wonderfully ignorant

Following a 2-year creative development period at The SUBSTATION, we were thrilled to present PHUONG NGO's ambitious solo exhibition CONFLICTED: WORKS FROM THE VIETNAM ARCHIVE PROJECT.

CONFLICTED explored the political and social aspects of the Vietnam war through the lens of service men and women. Utilising found images and objects from NGO's VIETNAM ARCHIVE PROJECT, of over 10,000 items, the exhibition comprised a series of intimate moments and large-scale installations, offering a nuanced and alternative reading of the Vietnam War.
